

02| Brut Grotesque Line + Italic

05| Brut Grotesque Thin + Italic

08| Brut Grotesque Extralight + Italic

11| Brut Grotesque Light + Italic

14| Brut Grotesque Book + Italic

17| Brut Grotesque Regular + Italic

20| Brut Grotesque Medium + Italic

23| Brut Grotesque Bold + Italic

26| Brut Grotesque Extrabold + Italic

29| Brut Grotesque Black + Italic

---

Designed by Bureau Brut

Published in 2020

Version 6.1

---

www.bureaubrut.com

bonjour@bureaubrut.com

---

32| Character set

35| OpenType features

39| Supported languages

80|84 pt

However,
I admitted the existence of the
"MONSTER."

36|42 pt

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS
BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20|28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln; a spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of November this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of November, at twelve (speaking) expire; after that time, Commander Farragut, faithful to THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT MARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER,

10|14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the Marine Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened to raise premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronounced. They were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparations for an expedition to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was put in commission as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, who hastened the frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was decided to pursue the monster, not appear. For two months no one heard it spoken of. No ship met with it. It seemed to have been so much talked of, even through the fog of the winter, that it had been forgotten all—fatigue, friends and collections—and accepted without hesitation the offer. THEY MADE PREPARATIONS FOR AN EXPEDITION DESTINED TO PURSUE THIS FRIGATE OF GREAT SPEED, THE ABRAHAM LINCOLN, WAS PUT IN COMMISSION AS POSSIBLE. THE ARSENALS WERE OPENED TO COMMANDER FARRAGUT, WHICH can Government. "Besides," thought I, "all the unicorn may be amiable enough to hurry to the worthy animal may allow itself to be caught for particular benefit), and I will not bring back the unicorn halberd to the Museum of Natural History. I will pursue this narwhal in the North Pacific Ocean, and I will take the road to the antipodes. "Conseil," I called to my servant, a true, devoted Flemish boy, who had accompanied my travels. I liked him, and he returned the like. I was regular from principle, zealous from habit, and I was THE ARMING OF HIS FRIGATE; BUT, AS IT WAS DECIDED TO PURSUE THE MONSTER, IT NOT APPEAR. FOR TWO MONTHS NO

7,5|10,5pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say, after our departure), the frigate was abreast of Cape Horn, seven miles to leeward of the coast of Patagonia. We had crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of the monster and another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose existence I NATURALLY LED UP THE CONVERSATION TO THE MONSTER, AND EXAMINED THE VARIOUS CHANCES OF SUCCESS OR FAILURE OF THE EXPEDITION. BUT, SINCE

Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of the monster and another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose great depths had up to this time been inaccessible to the eye of man. I turned the conversation to the giant unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. But, let me speak without saying too much of myself, I pressed him more closely. "Well, Ned," said I, "is it possible that you believe in the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" He looked at me fixedly for some moments before answering, struck his broad forehead with his hand (a habit of his), as if to himself, and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you, a whaler by profession, familiarised with all the great marine mammals, HAVE YOU ANY PARTICULAR REASON FOR BEING SO INCREDULOUS?" THE HARPOONER LOOKED AT ME FOR SOME MOMENTS BEFORE ANSWERING, STRUCK HIS BROAD FOREHEAD WITH HIS HAND (A HABIT OF HIS), AND SAID AT LAST, "PERHAPS I HAVE, MR. ARONNAX." "BUT, NED, YOU, A WHALER BY

However,
I admitted the existence of the
"MONSTER."

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS
BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20|28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of November this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of November, at twelve (speaking) expire; after that time, Commander Farragut, faithful to THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT MARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER

10|14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the Marine Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened to raise a premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronounced. The United States were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparations for an expedition to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was put in commission as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, who hastened to the frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was decided to pursue the monster did not appear. For two months no one heard it spoken of. No ship met with it. It seemed the unicorn knew of the plots weaving around it. It had been so much talked of, even through the Atlantic back! I forgot all—fatigue, friends and collections—and accepted without hesitation. THEY MADE PREPARATIONS FOR AN EXPEDITION DESTINED TO PURSUE THIS FRIGATE OF GREAT SPEED, THE ABRAHAM LINCOLN, WAS PUT IN COMMISSION AS POSSIBLE. THE ARSENALS WERE OPENED TO COMMANDER FARRAGUT, WHO offer of the American Government. "Beside Europe; and the unicorn may be amiable on the coast of France. This worthy animal may be sent to Europe (for my particular benefit), and I will give of his ivory halberd to the Museum of Natural History. I must seek this narwhal in the North Pacific. He is now taking the road to the antipodes." "Commodore Conseil was my servant, a true, devoted man, who accompanied me in all my travels. I liked him, and he retained his nature, regular from principle, zealous from duty. THE ARMING OF HIS FRIGATE; BUT, AS IT WAS DECIDED TO PURSUE THE MONSTER, IT DID NOT APPEAR. FOR TWO MONTHS NO

7,5|10,5pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say, after our departure), the frigate was abreast of Cape Horn, a few miles to leeward of the coast of Patagonia. We had crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days were over the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of the sea and of another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose depths were inaccessible to the eye of man. I naturally led up the conversation to the unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. But, as Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days were over the Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of the sea and of another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose great depths had up to this time been inaccessible to the eye of man. I naturally led up the conversation to the giant unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. But, as Ned Land let me speak without saying too much himself, I pressed him more closely. "Well, Ned," said I, "is it possible that you are so convinced of the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" The harpooner looked at me fixedly for some moments before answering, struck his broad forehead with his hand (a habit of his) and collect himself, and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you, a whaler by profession, familiarised with the sea, have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" THE HARPOONER LOOKED AT ME FOR SOME MOMENTS BEFORE ANSWERING, STRUCK HIS BROAD FOREHEAD WITH HIS HAND (A HABIT OF HIS) AND COLLECT HIMSELF, AND SAID AT LAST, "PERHAPS I HAVE, MR. ARONNAX." "BUT, NED, YOU, A WHALER BY

However,
I admitted the existence of the “MONSTER.”

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20|28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of November this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of November, at twelve (speaking) expire; after that time, Commander Farragut, faithful

THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT SUBMARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER

10|14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the the Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened to raise the rate of premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronounced. They were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparations for an expedition to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was put in commission as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, who hastened to the frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was decided to pursue the monster did not appear. For two months no one heard it spoken of. No ship met with it. It seems the unicorn knew of the plots weaving around it. It had been so much talked of, even through the Atlantic back! I forgot all—fatigue, friends and collections—and accepted without hesitation.

THEY MADE PREPARATIONS FOR AN EXPEDITION DESTINED TO PURSUE THIS FRIGATE OF GREAT SPEED, THE ABRAHAM LINCOLN, WAS PUT IN COMMISSION AS POSSIBLE. THE ARSENALS WERE OPENED TO COMMANDER FARRAGUT, WHO

offer of the American Government. "Beside Europe; and the unicorn may be amiable on the coast of France. This worthy animal may be sent to Europe (for my particular benefit), and I will add of his ivory halberd to the Museum of Natural History. I must seek this narwhal in the North Pacific. He was taking the road to the antipodes. "Cousin Conseil was my servant, a true, devoted man, who accompanied me in all my travels. I liked him, and he rendered me nature, regular from principle, zealous from duty. I NEEDED THE ARMING OF HIS FRIGATE; BUT THE MOMENT IT WAS DECIDED TO PURSUE THE MONSTER DID NOT APPEAR. FOR TWO MONTHS

7,5|10,5 pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say after our departure), the frigate was abreast of Cape Horn, miles to leeward of the coast of Patagonia. We had crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting and another as we looked at this mysterious sea. I NATURALLY LED UP THE CONVERSATION TO THE SUBJECT OF THE UNICORN, AND EXAMINED THE VARIOUS CHANCES OF SUCCESS OR FAILURE OF THE EXPEDITION. BUT, SINCE

Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting and another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose great depths had up to this time been inaccessible to the eye. I led up the conversation to the giant unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. That Ned Land let me speak without saying too much himself, I pressed him more closely. "Well, Ned," said I, "is it not convinced of the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" THE HARPOONER LOOKED AT ME FOR SOME MOMENTS BEFORE ANSWERING, STRUCK HIS BROAD FOREHEAD WITH HIS HAND (A HABIT OF HIS WHICH HE COLLECT HIMSELF, AND SAID AT LAST, "PERHAPS I HAVE, MR. ARONNAX." "BUT, NED, YOU, A WHALER BY PROFESSION, FAMILIARISED WITH THE

However,
I admitted the existence of the “MONSTER.”

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20|28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln a spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of November of this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of November, a (ly speaking) expire; after that time, Commander Farragut, faithful THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT SUBMARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER

10|14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the the Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened to r of premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronounced. Tl States were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparations for an ex ned to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was put as soon as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, who haste of his frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was decided to pursue the r monster did not appear. For two months no one heard it spoken of. No ship met wit as if this unicorn knew of the plots weaving around it. It had been so much talked of the Atlantic back! I forgot all—fatigue, friends and collections—and accepted with THEY MADE PREPARATIONS FOR AN EXPEDITION DESTINED TO PURSUE TH FRIGATE OF GREAT SPEED, THE ABRAHAM LINCOLN, WAS PUT IN COMMISSI AS POSSIBLE. THE ARSENALS WERE OPENED TO COMMANDER FARRAGUT, A the offer of the American Government. back to Europe; and the unicorn may be the coast of France. This worthy animal seas of Europe (for my particular benefi half a yard of his ivory halberd to the M meanwhile I must seek this narwhal in th return to France, was taking the road to impatient voice. Conseil was my servant had accompanied me in all my travels. I well. He was quiet by nature, regular fro NED THE ARMING OF HIS FRIGATE; B MOMENT IT WAS DECIDED TO PURSU DID NOT APPEAR. FOR TWO MONTH:

7,5|10,5 pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say weeks after our departure), the frigate was abreast o Blanc, thirty miles to leeward of the coast of Patagor crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of M opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. I days were over the Abraham Lincoln would be plougl waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land chatting of one thing and another as we looked at thi I NATURALLY LED UP THE CONVERSATION TO TH UNICORN, AND EXAMINED THE VARIOUS CHANC SUCCESS OR FAILURE OF THE EXPEDITION. BUT,

Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days v Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chat another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose great depths had up to this time been inaccessible to the € led up the conversation to the giant unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the exp that Ned Land let me speak without saying too much himself, I pressed him more closely. "Well, Ned," said I, "is are not convinced of the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you any particular reason for lous?" The harpooner looked at me fixedly for some moments before answering, struck his broad forehead wit his), as if to collect himself, and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you, a whaler by professio HAVE YOU ANY PARTICULAR REASON FOR BEING SO INCREDULOUS?" THE HARPOONER LOOKED AT SOME MOMENTS BEFORE ANSWERING, STRUCK HIS BROAD FOREHEAD WITH HIS HAND (A HABIT OF COLLECT HIMSELF, AND SAID AT LAST, "PERHAPS I HAVE, MR. ARONNAX." "BUT, NED, YOU, A WHALER E

However,
I admitted the existence of the “MONSTER.”

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20|28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln a spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of November of this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of November (morally speaking) expire; after that time, Commander Farragut THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT SUBMARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER

10|14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened to of premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronounced. The States were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparations for an expedition destined to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was commissioned as soon as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, with the arming of his frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was decided to pursue the monster, the monster did not appear. For two months no one heard it spoken of. No one saw it. It seemed as if this unicorn knew of the plots weaving around it. It had been so near even through the Atlantic back! I forgot all—fatigue, friends and collections—and THEY MADE PREPARATIONS FOR AN EXPEDITION DESTINED TO PURSUE THE FRIGATE OF GREAT SPEED, THE ABRAHAM LINCOLN, WAS PUT IN COMMISSION AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. THE ARSENALS WERE OPENED TO COMMANDER FARRAGUT, without hesitation the offer of the American Consul, "all roads lead back to Europe; and the sooner I hurry me towards the coast of France. The sooner I shall be caught in the seas of Europe (for my back is not less than half a yard of his ivory harpoon)." But in the meanwhile I must see the monster in the Ocean, which, to return to France, was the only way. "Conseil," I called in an impatient voice. "I have a devoted Flemish boy, who had accompanied me to the coast, and he returned the liking well. He was the first to see the monster. I HAD MADE PREPARATIONS FOR THE ARMING OF HIS FRIGATE; BUT THE MOMENT IT WAS DECIDED TO PURSUE THE MONSTER, THE MONSTER DID NOT APPEAR. FOR TWO MONTHS

7,5|10,5pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say, three weeks after our departure), the frigate was abreast of Cape Blanc, thirty miles to leeward of the coast of Patagonia. The frigate crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Three days were over the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of one thing and another as we looked at the horizon. I NATURALLY LED UP THE CONVERSATION TO THE SUBJECT OF THE MONSTER, AND EXAMINED THE VARIOUS CHANCES OF SUCCESS OR FAILURE OF THE EXPEDITION. BUT,

Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days of the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of one thing and another as we looked at the horizon. I led up the conversation to the giant unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. I that Ned Land let me speak without saying too much of myself, I pressed him more closely. "Well, Ned," said I, "if you are not convinced of the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you any particular reason for doubting?" The harpooner looked at me fixedly for some moments before answering, struck his broad forehead with his hand, as if to collect himself, and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you, a whaler by profession, HAVE YOU ANY PARTICULAR REASON FOR BEING SO INCREDULOUS?" THE HARPOONER LOOKED AT ME FOR SOME MOMENTS BEFORE ANSWERING, STRUCK HIS BROAD FOREHEAD WITH HIS HAND (A HABIT OF COLLECTING HIMSELF, AND SAID AT LAST, "PERHAPS I HAVE, MR. ARONNAX." "BUT, NED, YOU, A WHALER I

However,
I admitted the existence of the “MONSTER.”

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20|28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln a spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of November the mystery of this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of November (morally speaking) expired; after that time, Commander Farragut THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT SUBMARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER

10|14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened to raise the rate of premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronounced. The States were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparations for an expedition destined to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was commissioned as soon as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, with a view to the arming of his frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was decided to pursue the monster, the monster did not appear. For two months no one heard it spoken of. No one saw it. It seemed as if this unicorn knew of the plots weaving around it. It had been so long that it had even through the Atlantic back! I forgot all—fatigue, friends and collections—and THEY MADE PREPARATIONS FOR AN EXPEDITION DESTINED TO PURSUE THE MONSTER WITH A FRIGATE OF GREAT SPEED, THE ABRAHAM LINCOLN, WAS PUT IN COMMISSION AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. THE ARSENALS WERE OPENED TO COMMANDER FARRAGUT without hesitation the offer of the American Consul, "all roads lead back to Europe; and therefore I will hurry me towards the coast of France. I will not be caught in the seas of Europe (for my business is to bring back less than half a yard of his ivory tusk to the History." But in the meanwhile I must see to it that I do not lose the Ocean, which, to return to France, was the only way. "Conseil," I called in an impatient voice. "I have a devoted Flemish boy, who had accompanied me to the coast, and he returned the liking well. He was very anxious to HASTENED THE ARMING OF HIS FRIGATE. THE MOMENT IT WAS DECIDED TO PURSUE THE MONSTER DID NOT APPEAR. FOR TWO MONTHS NO ONE HEARD IT SPOKEN OF. NO ONE SAW IT. IT SEEMED AS IF THIS UNICORN KNEW OF THE PLOTS WEAVING AROUND IT. IT HAD BEEN SO LONG THAT IT HAD EVEN THROUGH THE ATLANTIC BACK! I FORGOT ALL—FATIGUE, FRIENDS AND COLLECTIONS—AND

7,5|10,5 pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say, three weeks after our departure), the frigate was abreast Cape Horn, thirty miles to leeward of the coast of Patagonia. She crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Three days were over the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of one thing and another as we looked at the horizon. I NATURALLY LED UP THE CONVERSATION TO THE MONSTER, AND EXAMINED THE VARIOUS CHANCES OF SUCCESS OR FAILURE OF THE EXPEDITION. BUT,

Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of one thing and another as we looked at the horizon. I naturally led up the conversation to the giant unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. But, seeing that Ned Land let me speak without saying too much of himself, I pressed him more closely. "Well, Ned, is it possible that you are not convinced of the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" The harpooner looked at me fixedly for some moments before answering, struck his broad forehead with his hand (a habit of his), as if to collect himself, and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you, have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" THE HARPOONER LOOKED AT ME FIXEDLY FOR SOME MOMENTS BEFORE ANSWERING, STRUCK HIS BROAD FOREHEAD WITH HIS HAND (A HABIT OF HIS), AS IF TO COLLECT HIMSELF, AND SAID AT LAST, "PERHAPS I HAVE, MR. ARONNAX." "BUT, NED, YOU, A WHALER

However,
I admitted the existence of the “MONSTER.”

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20|28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln leave a spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of unveiling of this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of November would (morally speaking) expire; after that time, Commander Lincoln THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT SUBMARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER

10|14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened to of premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronounced. States were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparations for an expedition destined to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was commissioned as soon as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, and he hastened the arming of his frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was decided that the monster, the monster did not appear. For two months no one heard it spoken of. Not a word of it. It seemed as if this unicorn knew of the plots weaving around it. It had been so long that even through the Atlantic back! I forgot all—fatigue, friends and collections—and they made preparations for an expedition destined to pursue the monster. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was put in commission as soon as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut without hesitation the offer of the American thought I, "all roads lead back to Europe enough to hurry me towards the coast and allow itself to be caught in the seas of Europe and I will not bring back less than half a Museum of Natural History." But in the North Pacific Ocean, which, to reach to the antipodes. "Conseil," I called in a servant, a true, devoted Flemish boy, who travels. I liked him, and he returned the frigate hastened the arming of his friends, the moment it was decided the monster did not appear. For two

7,5|10,5 pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say, weeks after our departure), the frigate was abreast of Blanc, thirty miles to leeward of the coast of Patagonia crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Eight days were over the Abraham Lincoln would be the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of one thing and another as we looked naturally led up the conversation to the unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. But,

Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days, Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting and another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose great depths had up to this time been inaccessible to us. But, seeing that Ned Land let me speak without saying too much of himself, I pressed him more closely. "Well, Ned, is it possible that you are not convinced of the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" The harpooner looked at me fixedly for some moments before answering, struck his forehead with his hand (a habit of his), as if to collect himself, and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" The harpooner looked at me for some moments before answering, struck his broad forehead with his hand (a habit of his), and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you, a whaler

However,
I admitted the existence of the “MONSTER.”

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20 | 28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln leave a spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of unveiling of this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of November would (morally speaking) expire; after that time, Commander THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT SUBMARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER

10 | 14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened to raise rates of premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronounced in the United States were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparations for an expedition destined to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was commissioned as soon as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, who hastened the arming of his frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was decided to pursue the monster, the monster did not appear. For two months no one heard of the ship met with it. It seemed as if this unicorn knew of the plots weaving around it. It was much talked of, even through the Atlantic back! I forgot all—fatigue, friends and family, and they made preparations for an expedition destined to pursue the monster. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Lincoln, was put in commission as soon as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farragut, and accepted without hesitation the offer. "Besides," thought I, "all roads lead back to the land, and I am amiable enough to hurry me towards the land, and I am sure the animal may allow itself to be caught in the net (if it is to my benefit), and I will not bring back less than a specimen to the Museum of Natural History." But in the next day, the 5th of November, the narwhal in the North Pacific Ocean, where I was, was the road to the antipodes. "Conseil," I said to Ned, "I was my servant, a true, devoted Fleming, and I will follow you all my travels. I liked him, and he returned with me. I hastened the arming of his frigate, the moment it was decided to pursue the monster did not appear. For two

7,5 | 10,5 pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to say, three weeks after our departure), the frigate was abreast of the coast of Patagonia, thirty miles to leeward of the coast of Patagonia, crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Eight days were over the Abraham Lincoln would be in the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of one thing and another as we looked at the sea. I naturally led up the conversation to the unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. But

Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight days were over the Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were chatting of one thing and another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose great depths had up to this time been inaccessible to us. I naturally led up the conversation to the giant unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or failure of the expedition. But, seeing that Ned Land let me speak without saying too much of himself, I pressed him more closely. "Well, Ned, is it possible that you are not convinced of the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you any particular reason for being so incredulous?" The harpooner looked at me fixedly for some moments before answering, struck his hand (a habit of his), as if to collect himself, and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you have no particular reason for being so incredulous?" The harpooner looked at me for some moments before answering, struck his broad forehead with his hand (a habit of his), and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, Ned, you, a whale

However,
I admitted the existence of the “MONSTER.”

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

20|28 pt

Small craft radiated in all directions round the Abraham Lincoln leave a spot of the sea unexplored. But the night of the 4th of unveiling of this submarine mystery. The next day, the 5th of would (morally speaking) expire; after that time, Commander THE NIGHT OF THE 4TH OF NOVEMBER ARRIVED WITHOUT SUBMARINE MYSTERY. THE NEXT DAY, THE 5TH OF NOVE

10|14 pt

The Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, the Lloyd's List, the Packet-Boat, and the Colonial Review, all papers devoted to insurance companies which threatened t rates of premium, were unanimous on this point. Public opinion had been pronoi United States were the first in the field; and in New York they made preparation: tion destined to pursue this narwhal. A frigate of great speed, the Abraham Linc commission as soon as possible. The arsenals were opened to Commander Farr: hastened the arming of his frigate; but, as it always happens, the moment it was pursue the monster, the monster did not appear. For two months no one heard it ship met with it. It seemed as if this unicorn knew of the plots weaving around it. much talked of, even through the Atlantic back! I forgot all—fatigue, friends and THEY MADE PREPARATIONS FOR AN EXPEDITION DESTINED TO PURSUE TI A FRIGATE OF GREAT SPEED, THE ABRAHAM LINCOLN, WAS PUT IN COMM SOON AS POSSIBLE. THE ARSENALS WERE OPENED TO COMMANDER FAR!

and accepted without hesitation the o "Besides," thought I, "all roads lead ba be amiable enough to hurry me toward animal may allow itself to be caught in lar benefit), and I will not bring back le halberd to the Museum of Natural Hist seek this narwhal in the North Pacific ( was taking the road to the antipodes. ' voice. Conseil was my servant, a true, accompanied me in all my travels. I like HASTENED THE ARMING OF HIS FRI PENS, THE MOMENT IT WAS DECIDE THE MONSTER DID NOT APPEAR. FC

7,5|10,5pt

One magnificent evening, the 30th July (that is to s weeks after our departure), the frigate was abreast Blanc, thirty miles to leeward of the coast of Patag had crossed the tropic of Capricorn, and the Strait Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to Before eight days were over the Abraham Lincoln v ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the Land and I were chatting of one thing and another z I NATURALLY LED UP THE CONVERSATION TO TI UNICORN, AND EXAMINED THE VARIOUS CHAN SUCCESS OR FAILURE OF THE EXPEDITION. BUT

Capricorn, and the Straits of Magellan opened less than seven hundred miles to the south. Before eight da Abraham Lincoln would be ploughing the waters of the Pacific. Seated on the poop, Ned Land and I were c and another as we looked at this mysterious sea, whose great depths had up to this time been inaccessible naturally led up the conversation to the giant unicorn, and examined the various chances of success or fail tion. But, seeing that Ned Land let me speak without saying too much himself, I pressed him more closely. ' it possible that you are not convinced of the existence of this cetacean that we are following? Have you an for being so incredulous?" The harpooner looked at me fixedly for some moments before answering, struck with his hand (a habit of his), as if to collect himself, and said at last, "Perhaps I have, Mr. Aronnax." "But, N HAVE YOU ANY PARTICULAR REASON FOR BEING SO INCREDULOUS?" THE HARPOONER LOOKED A SOME MOMENTS BEFORE ANSWERING, STRUCK HIS BROAD FOREHEAD WITH HIS HAND (A HABIT C COLLECT HIMSELF, AND SAID AT LAST, "PERHAPS I HAVE, MR. ARONNAX." "BUT, NED, YOU, A WHALI

80|84 pt

However,
I admitted the existence of the
"MONSTER."

An immense track,
of dazzling whiteness,
marked the passage
of the animal

THE VOYAGE WAS BEING ACCOMPLISHED
UNDER THE MOST FAVOURABLE AUSPICES

Large squares

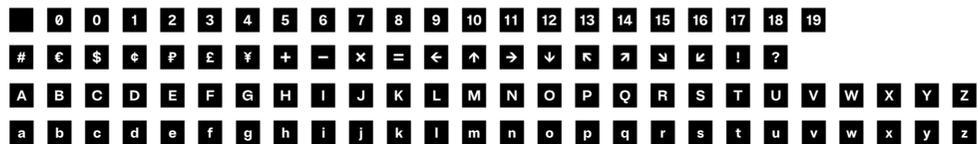

Large circles

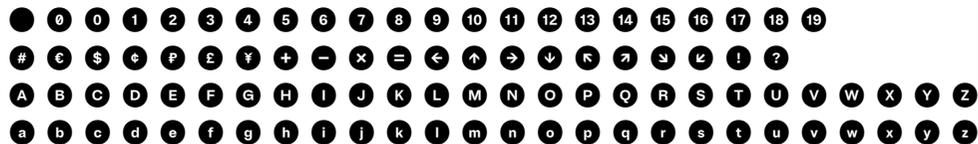

Large diamonds

Black squared letters and figures

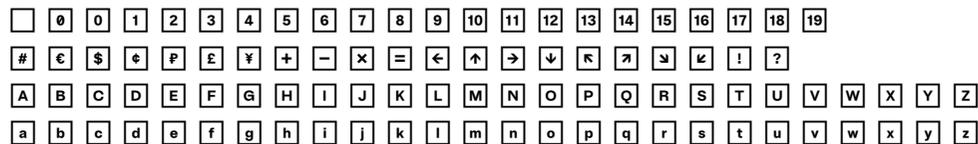

Black circled letters and figures

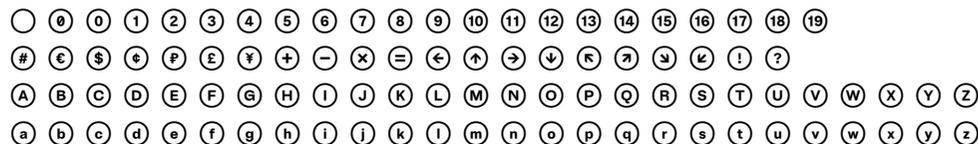

Black diamond-shaped letters and figures

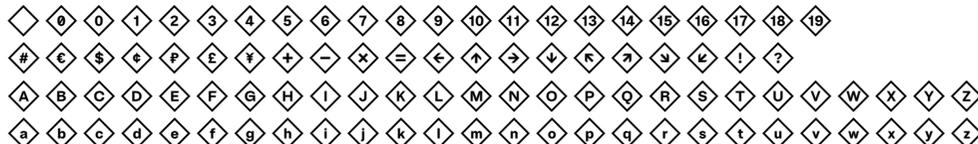

White squared letters and figures

White circled letters and figures

White diamond-shaped letters and figures

Shade characters & block elements

Terminal graphic characters

Eyes

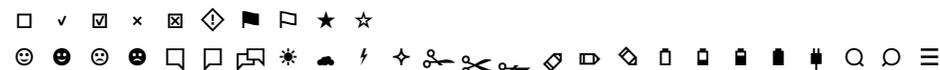

User interface symbols

Dice & playing card symbols

Miscellaneous symbols

Ligatures are a more harmonious design for some letter combinations. Standard ligatures are activated by default whereas discretionary ones can be activated on the OpenType panel.

Standard ligatures

Il fit un sifflement
effrayant

Il fit un sifflement
effrayant

Discretionary ligatures

Théâtre
www.bureaubrut.com

Théâtre
www.bureaubrut.com

When activating the “small caps” option, lowercase letters will be transformed in small capitals and lining figures in oldstyle figures. You can also access the “all small caps” option on the OpenType panel that will also transform uppercase letters. The height and spacing of the punctuation is automatically adapted when you select the “all caps” or “small caps” option.

Lowercase in small caps

Monsieur
le Président

MONSIEUR
LE PRÉSIDENT

“All small caps” option

Monsieur
le Président

MONSIEUR
LE PRÉSIDENT

Case sensitive punctuation

¿ No ? (Yes) « Peut-être »

¿ NO ? (YES) « PEUT-ÊTRE »

An alternate slashed zero is available for all sets.

The default setting for figures is the lining set.

Tabular figures have an identical width and are useful for the composition of charts.

You can access the others sets on the OpenType panel. Height corrected currency and mathematical symbols are automatically activated on all sets of figures.

Slashed zero

Order: ORD.NO000108

Order ORD.NO000109

Order: ORD.NO000108

Order ORD.NO000109

Tabular figures

001. Introduction

04'26"

001. Introduction

04'26"

002. Totentanz

07'11"

002. Totentanz

07'11"

003. Reunited

08'59"

003. Reunited

08'59"

Oldstyle figures

Le 14 juillet 1789 à 23h05

Le 14 juillet 1789 à 23h05

Oldstyle tabular figures

Jacques

01 23 45 67 89

Jacques

01 23 45 67 89

Nicolas

06 11 29 61 10

Nicolas

06 11 29 61 10

François

07 89 13 44 19

François

07 89 13 44 19

Lining figures ajusted for small caps

Le 14 juillet 1789 à 23h05

LE 14 JUILLET 1789 À 23H05

Stylistics sets from 1 to 9 activate a range of alternates sets for numbers and basic arrows. Numbers from 10 to 15 activate other alternates that contains letters in addition.

15 Styles

Black squared figures

1 5 Styles

Black circled figures

① ⑤ Styles

Black diamond-shaped figures

◆ 1 5 ◆ Styles

White squared figures

□ 1 5 □ Styles

White circled figures

○ ① ⑤ ○ Styles

White diamond-shaped figures

◇ 1 5 ◇ Styles

Dotted squared figures

⋮ 1 5 ⋮ Styles

Dotted circled figures

⦿ ① ⑤ ⦿ Styles

Dotted diamond-shaped figures

⦿ 1 5 ⦿ Styles

Black squared letters and figures

1 5 S t y l e s

Black circled letters and figures

① ⑤ S t y l e s

Black diamond-shaped letters and figures

◆ 1 5 ◆ S t y l e s ◆

White squared letters and figures

□ 1 5 □ S t y l e s □

White circled letters and figures

○ ① ⑤ ○ S t y l e s ○

White diamond-shaped letters and figures

◇ 1 5 ◇ S t y l e s ◇

Some fractions are build-in glyphs but the fraction option can transform any two series of numbers separated by a slash into a fraction. You can also access the numerators and denominators options separately.

Fractions

1/2 litre de lait
20/20

½ litre de lait
20/20

Numerators

1234/

1234/

Denominators

/5678

/5678

Superscript, subscript and ordinal can all be activated on the OpenType panel. For example superscripts are used on some abbreviations and subscripts on formulas. Ordinals are usually useful for abbreviations in Spanish (segunda, segundo...).

Superscript/Superior

1er étage - 123m2

1<sup>er</sup> étage - 123m<sup>2</sup>

Subscript/Inferior

C6H10O5

C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>10</sub>O<sub>5</sub>

Ordinal

No 211088

N<sup>o</sup> 211088

A	G	M	S
Afrikaans	Galician	Machame	Samburu
Albanian	Ganda	Makhuwa-Meetto	Sango
Asu	German	Makonde	Sangu
	Gusii	Malagasy	Scottish Gaelic
B		Malay	Sena
Basque	H	Maltese	Shambala
Bemba	Hungarian	Manx	Shona
Bena		Meru	Slovak
Bosnian	I	Morisyen	Slovenian
	Icelandic		Soga
C	Inari Sami	N	Somali
Catalan	Indonesian	North Ndebele	Spanish
Chiga	Irish	Northern Sami	Swahili
Colognian	Italian	Norwegian Bokmål Norwegian Nynorsk	Swedish
Cornish		Nyankole	Swiss German
Croatian	J
Czech	Jola-Fonyi	O	T
		Oromo	Taita
D	K	Occitan	Teso
Danish	Kabuverdianu		Turkmen
	Kalaallisut	P
E	Kalenjin	Polish	U
Embu	Kamba	Portuguese	Upper Sorbian
English	Kikuyu
Esperanto	Kinyarwanda	R	V
Estonian		Romansh	Vunjo
	L	Rombo
F	Latvian	Rundi	W
Faroese	Lithuanian	Rwa	Walser
Filipino	Lower Sorbian		Welsh
Finnish	Luo
French	Luxembourgish		Z
Friulian	Luyia		Zulu

Bureau Brut ©

---

Texts of this specimen are extracts from Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea
by Jules Verne.

---

29|01|2020

